Freelance: Inviting, Durable, Elegant

Cypress, CA, March 2004 – Beginning in March 2004 Freelance, SitOnIt's low density stacking chair, is expanding to include a sled base model and tablet arm and bookrack options. These additions round out the line which includes arm and armless stacking models, stools, a caster chair and a thermoplastic model.

Freelance is the perfect solution for a wide variety of applications including meeting, training and conference rooms as well as cafeterias, hospitality and collaborative areas. Combining elegance and performance, Freelance is competitively priced from $215 list for armless models to $265 list for models with arms.

The sled base frame complements the design and structure of the original Freelance chair, providing a roomy sit while occupying minimal space. The new tablet arm features a black surface and flips up when not in use. The tablet arm is available in left-hand and right-hand options and is specifiable in two sizes, standard and oversize, allowing for maximum customization based on application. The bookrack is finished in black. These new additions to the Freelance family and make this durable chair a supportive and versatile contributor in any space.

The eye-catching, transitional design of Freelance features an ergonomic back and waterfall front, promoting comfort and providing a generous sit. The soft poly arms provide a user-friendly, rolling curve that enhances design and provides additional support.

A wall saver is incorporated into the design of the frame on all models, minimizing potential scuffs and marks on walls. This kick-out feature also prevents tipping, a critical requirement for healthcare, educational and other institutional applications. Freelance stacks six-high on the convenient stacking cart, facilitating easy transport and storage. The underside of the seat features a shroud which enhances not only the aesthetics and function of the chair, but facilitates stacking as well.

The Freelance chair can be specified in any one of SitOnIt's high-quality textiles, provided exclusively by Knoll Textiles, Momentum Group and Spinneybeck, or you can order Freelance in one of six designer thermoplastic colors. For the ultimate in customization, Freelance can be upholstered using SitOnIt's ballistic nylon back option.

Freelance is ready to go wherever and whenever it's needed, shipping in just two to five business days from receipt of order. Offered with a lifetime warranty, Freelance offers incredible functionality at a well-grounded price.
